Every Good Housekeeper should know the cost of maintaining every department of her establishment under varying conditions and at different seasons of the year. This little book has been so arranged as to provide the easiest possible means for keeping such a record of expenditures as will make comparison easy at any and all times. Entries may begin on any day of the year, and whether purchases are made for cash, or on weekly or monthly accounts, the proper place will be found in the following pages for making a memorandum of the amount paid, at the time, and the method of summarizing for various periods will be evident to any one familiar with simple addition.
